vestigation. I go along with the investigation. They were just trying to cool the Negroes down. This investigation was mostly to satisfy the Blacks."

RUFUS HOLMES, 3600 N. MacGregor: "The Grand Jury was just a regular routine. They went through the procedure, but it was solved before it started. They knew what the results were going to be. It was to brainwash the Blacks. The white man has always done things like that. It was a waste of time."

G.A. DAWSON, 5300 Higgins: "I think the Grand Jury was a waste of time. I feel that the Grand Jury did not know what really happened on Dowling Street."

MAURICE CRISSMON, 2800 Dennis: "I think it was a waste of time and money. In the beginning, the Grand Jury was not in favor of the Black man. They did the investigation just to cool the Black man. They could have taken a different approach in the investigation."

ALFRED BATTLE, 870 Comel: "I think it was a waste of time, also a waste of people, time and money. They really didn't need a Grand Jury. The only reason they had a Grand Jury was to find out and expose some of the ideas of People Party II."

ERVIN KIMBLE, 7300 Mount Batten: "A Grand Jury is a good thing. In this particular case, I feel that the Grand Jury's mind was already made up. It was a waste of time. It was something like a cooling off period."

WILSON SCOTT, 5700 Tiffany: "I feel it was a waste of time. Their minds were made up before the investigation. They could have given the people without an investigation. Grand Jury investigation to cool the Black man
