Reparations: Resources for Repair

June 23rd to 26th 2005 Atlanta, Georgia

The vision for reparations is far more expansive than just increasing the services of existing non-profits. A campaign to demonstrate the connection between achieving reparations and securing resources will expand and connect the reparations movement to concrete efforts being made to improve the lives of African American people today. The increased involvement of organizations that are traditionally not considered "reparations organizations" will be attained when the interests of these organizations converge with those of reparations organizations. "Reparations: Resources for Repair," heralds the convergence of all those engaged in this historic struggle for justice.

· Conference Motto: "Ignore or Repair?"

Is an idea for a marketing campaign designed by Anana Johari Harris, a Marketing Consultant and a member of the Atlanta Chapter of N'COBRA. The vision is that we are giving people a choice, ignore it or repair it. We are telling people that by joining N'COBRA, they are choosing to repair both their individual situation, as well as our collective plight.

· Conference Purpose:

To educate and equip conference attendees with successful organizing techniques and educational tools to engage and empower the entire African American community.

· Conference Goals

- To spread and broaden the definition of "reparations related work" to include the efforts of direct service organizations.
- 2. To disseminate educational and organizational materials and templates to assist and prepare local leadership in developing and building NCOBRA Chapters across the
- 3. To recruit and expand membership to include African Americans from the entire spectrum of our community.

Black Panther Party Photo Exhibit Reception

"To Serve the People: Body and Soul"

"To Serve the People: Body and Soul the Photography of the Black Panther Party" William "BJ" Jennings, curator of the Black Panther Party (BPP) photography exhibit, is committed to the preservation and promotion of the legacy of the BPP and its programs of community survival and social change.

As a collective of various organizations and philosophies, we will respect each other's autonomy.

The central principles we unify and agree upon are:

- Our primary goal is to achieve Reparations for Africans in America:
- The so-called Transatlantic "slave trade" was not trade but was in fact a Holocaust of African Enslavement. It was morally wrong and a crime against humanity;
- 3. We define Reparations as a process of repairing, healing and restoring our people; therefore we continue our ancestors efforts to liberate us by focusing on repairing, healing and restoring the personal, family, and community damages that we suffered during the Holocaust of African Enslavement;
- Africans in America are due Restitution for the Holocaust of African Enslavement and its vestiges; and
- We support and work for the passage of HR-40, sponsored by Congressman John Conyers, and other state and local legislative initiatives.

ignore OR repair

This year's conference will highlight the many strategies and options for Reparations for African descendants in the United States. These strategies and options and organized into three tracks:

Track 1 Resources for Repair

These workshops will focus on individual, family and community repair. Exemplary model organizations that are doing repair work in our community will be highlighted.

Track 2 Self-determination and Sovereignty
These workshops will highlight models of self determination and sovereignty including African American towns and nation formations including Native American Nations.

Track 3 Repatriation and Pan African Reparations

These workshops will focus on models of Repatriation and feature a Pan African Reparations panel, coordinated by the N'COBRA International Commission.

The N'COBRA logo is composed of three Adinka symbols; the meaning from bottom to top are:

NKONSONSON

NKONSONKONSON (link or chain) We are linked in life, we are linked in death, those that share common blood relations, never break apart.

OWO FORA ADOBE (snake climbing the palm tree) Performing the unusual or impossible.

BIRIBI WO SORO - NYAME BIRIBI WOSORO NA MA EMBEKA MENSA

There is something in the heavens, God there is something in the heavens, let it reach me. (Symbol of Hope).

NKONSONSON OWO FORA ADOBE BIRIBI WO SORO....

We who are linked in life and death share a common blood relation that can never break apart and can perform the impossible that we might reach our worldly task of building a heaven here on EARTH.
