

Greetings All:

I'm somewhat at a loss for words at this point in time, still digesting the news and absorbing this tremendous personal and political loss. Of course, I'll be sending my condolences to her family.

Hours after hearing the sad news this morning, I was preparing to send this link out with my comments when I got a call from Davey D. He taped a phone interview with me for this afternoon's Hard Knock Radio on KPFA 94.1 f.m. (Pacifica) at 4:00 p.m (PST). He'll play the audio of the video interview with Yuri I did for S.F. Access in 2008.

This link has some of her history as well as a hip hop video in her honor that I hadn't heard before. Kudos to the rappers.

I've also attached the video interview from www.archive.org (Freedom Is A Constant Struggle). I hope it opens.

Long live the spirit of Yuri Kochiyama.

A legend in her lifetime, a true internationalist, she deserves to be honored universally.

Rest in peace, dear Sister.

Peace, Power, and Love,

Kiilu
